

GRETNA GREEN

SINCE 1754

WWW.GRETNAGREEN.COM

Heritage...Romance...Forever...

Gretna Green is a village on the Scottish border that is world famous as a romantic wedding destination. First over the border, it became a haven for young lovers following the 1754 Marriage Act introduced in England and Wales. You were forbidden to marry without your parents' permission if you were under 21. So the young and in love began eloping to Scotland, where it was much easier to marry.

Now fondly recognised as a romantic wedding destination, you can still marry in three historic marriage houses: two that give you Gretna Green on your marriage certificate and one that gives you Gretna on your certificate.

Gretna Green is synonymous with Anvil Weddings and it is the Famous Blacksmiths Shop where the tradition of an Anvil Wedding began. Legend has it that if you touch the famous Gretna Green anvil it brings you good fortune in affairs of the heart. It was here that the blacksmith would repair and make tools for the farms and shoe the horses. From 1754 the blacksmith in Gretna Green became notorious for a different kind of forging: joining couples in marriage. Marry in this ancient building, virtually untouched since runaway weddings began and full of magical charm.

Also in Gretna Green is the manor house of Gretna Hall, built for Gretna Estate in 1710, and later a coaching inn in 1825, it was the first official stop in Scotland for travelling stagecoaches and private carriages. Gretna Hall was also frequented by run-aways desperate to marry, but forbidden to do so back home. It witnessed many romantic elopements as a venue for aristocratic weddings. The picturesque courtyard of this majestic manor house is the venue for three atmospheric marriage rooms.

The Old Toll Bar, Gretna, became part of the run-away wedding legacy in 1830, when a bridge was built over the Sark River, redirecting most of the traffic that way into Scotland. The resident toll-keeper in the First House in Scotland became very busy arranging marriages for the many desperate couples that arrived on his doorstep. Today this intimate venue, steeped in history, creates a very special experience for your wedding day.

Famous Blacksmiths Shop

The Famous Blacksmiths Shop is the place where it all began...the very first runaways arrived at the crossroads where the blacksmith's workshop stands. Breathless, they entered the building to be met by the 'Blacksmith Priest' who quickly conducted the marriage ceremony. This little building is famed the world over for Gretna Green weddings and it is here that the ritual of the anvil ceremony began as the blacksmith, by striking the anvil, forged lives together. Your wedding will be sealed by that same magical moment.

GRETNA HALL
HISTORIC MARRIAGE HOUSE

A private manor house built in 1710, Gretna Hall then became a coaching inn from later that century. It was the first official stop in Scotland for travelling stagecoaches and private carriages. John Linton leased the Inn early in 1825 and he made Gretna Hall a safe and dignified sanctuary for aristocratic runaway couples. It hosted numerous high profile and aristocratic elopements in days gone by. This historic venue is steeped in the traditions of Gretna Green.

As a modern day venue, weddings take place in atmospheric marriage rooms in the original coach-house and courtyard. The wedding rooms are full of character and in keeping with tradition, each room features an anvil, which to this day seals your marriage in Gretna Green.

The gardens at Gretna Hall are extensive and provide an ideal backdrop for photographs, with an ornamental water feature, Gazebo, Kissing Gate and 'Gretna Green' sign alongside the large lawns and woodland.

Your Anvil Wedding and Marriage Certificate

Gretna Green Anvil weddings have been much imitated over the years in various venues in and around the local area and beyond. With over 130 years of experience in our family business, we believe that it is important that when you make the choice for your wedding day, you have clear and honest information and you get what you want. If the heritage of your wedding venue is important, we hope that the following helps:

If your dream is for a real Gretna Green wedding in a historically authentic building in Gretna Green and with Gretna Green on your wedding certificate, only our family of Gretna Green venues can make this come true.

If you have fallen in love with one of our Gretna venues, such as the stunning Water Gardens at Greens or the historic Old Toll Bar, you will have Gretna on your wedding certificate, as will Anvil Hall, a great venue for really large parties.

If you are not booking your wedding directly through us, please be sure to ask as some venues are neither in Gretna Green nor Gretna and exact location may not be explained to you clearly.

To help you to complete your M10 Form, the table below specifies the venue name and address which you will need to fill in under the "Place" of marriage section.

We look forward to helping you make your dream day come true!
